DISTRIBUTING IRISH FUNDS IN EUROPE

Net Sales of Long-term UCITS and Money Market Funds €BN

European investment funds are either regulated as UCITS funds under the UCITS directive or as non-UCITS or alternative investment funds (AIFs) under the Alternative Investment Fund Managers Directive (AIFMD). 2015 was an excellent year of growth in the European funds industry. Net assets of UCITS increased by 13% to €8,168 billion and net assets of non-UCITS increased by 8.3% to €4,412 billion.7

Europe ranks as the second largest market in the global asset management industry, managing 33% of the estimated €37 trillion global mutual fund assets at end 2015.9

UCITS

The UCITS product has been hugely successful since its inception in 1985. Now almost 30 years old, UCITS have gone from strength to strength, with 30,026 UCITS funds with €8,168 billion in assets as of 31 December 2015, according to EFAMA.

Europe is the most popular market for distributing UCITS funds, with over 63,000 registrations at the end of April 2015.10

This is over 5 times more than the next highest investing region, the Asia Pacific region, followed by the Americas and then the Middle East/Africa region.

Europe is therefore a market that should not be ignored by asset managers looking to raise assets. Many European investors look for the protection of the UCITS framework when making investments.

The top 10 European countries of distribution are Germany, Switzerland, Austria, France, UK, Netherlands, Spain, Italy, Sweden and Finland.

The UCITS Passport – How does it work?

UCITS funds benefit from a European Economic Prep (EEP) wide “passport” which means that once they are authorised in one EEA member state, they can be sold in any other EEA member state without the need for any additional authorisation. This is called the notification procedure.

The home state regulator has 10 working days from the receipt of the notification file to notify the host state regulator. The host state regulator has at most 5 working days to confirm to the home state regulator that the notification file has been received and the documents are printable and readable. The notification process is outlined in the diagram.

List of documents to be provided

- A notification letter - this is in a standard format and contains three sections of information relevant to the UCITS itself and the proposed marketing of UCITS in each host EEA member state. There must be a notification letter for each host EEA member state in which the UCITS wishes to publicly market its shares or units;
- Fund rules or its intruments of incorporation;
- Prospectus;
- Latest annual report and any subsequent half-yearly report; and
- Key investor information document (KIID)

The notification letter for the attention of the host regulator to market a fund in a particular country must provide the following information:

1. Type/name of the entity in charge of the marketing of UCITS in the particular country.
2. Details of the paying agent where applicable.
3. Details of any person from whom investors may obtain information and documents.
4. Name and place of the entity where the investors may obtain the net asset values, issue and redemption prices, the last prospectus, the last financial reports, the fund rules/articles of incorporation and as far as enabled, access to the contracts arranged with the UCITS.

UCITS Notification Process

- The home state regulator informs the UCITS of transmission date for the notification file. Marketing can start immediately.
- Home MS informs UCITS of transmission date for the notification file and translations to its home authority.
- UCITS transmits notification file content harmonised.
- Home MS checks notification file completeness + adds UCITS attestation.
- Regulator-to-regulator notification (no later than 10 working days after the receipt of the notification letter).
- Confirmation of completeness of the file (within 5 working days).
- Host MS checks ex post.

5. Any other information required by the host regulator in terms of details of any information disclosed to unit holder or their agents.
6. Details of the use of any exemptions that are available in a country in relation to marketing arrangements.

Some countries may require additional documentation in the form of a prospectus supplement or may have specific service provider requirements, such as a local representative and/or a paying agent. The procedure for selling UCITS funds outside of the EEA is country specific and would need to be considered on a country by country basis.
Alternative Investment Funds (AIFs)

The Alternative Investment Funds industry includes hedge funds, private equity, venture capital and real estate funds. Assets in hedge funds are mostly domiciled offshore or structured as limited partnerships in the US. Key domiciles for hedge funds outside of Europe are the US, Cayman, Australia and Brazil. The key domiciles in Europe are Ireland, Sweden, Netherlands, Guernsey, Luxembourg, France, UK, Finland and Jersey.

Any asset managers wishing to market and distribute AIFs in Europe will now have to carefully consider the implications of the Alternative Investment Fund Managers Directive (AIFMD) on how they can approach the distribution of their funds in Europe. The location of the Alternative Investment Fund Manager (AIFM) and the location of the AIF to be distributed will have a direct impact on the extent to which AIFMD compliance will be required.

All AIFMs located in the EEA whether they manage EEA or non-EEA AIFs fall within the scope of AIFMD. The AIFMD also captures the marketing within the EEA of AIFs managed by an AIFM located outside the EEA (non-EEA AIFM). Under the AIFMD, EEA AIFMs can now avail of a marketing passport to distribute AIFs within the EEA, similar to the UCITS Directive. The two types of AIFs which can be established are the Qualifying Investor Alternative Investment Fund (QIAIF) and the Retail Investor Alternative Investment Fund (RIAIF). QIAIFs are subject to a €100,000 (or equivalent in other currencies) minimum subscription requirement and can only be “marketed” (i.e. using the passport) to “professional investors”. There is a higher €500,000 (or equivalent in other countries) for QIAIFs which invest more than 50% of net assets in unregulated funds.

There are two ways to sell AIFs to European investors:

1. The AIFMD passport can be used if a fund promoter has an AIFM based in an EEA member state with a European domiciled AIF or alternatively the fund promoter establishes an EEA domiciled self-managed AIF (which is authorised both as the fund and the AIFM). Since mid 2015 the Commission has been evaluating the possibility of allowing the use of the marketing passport for non-EEA AIFs.

2. Non-EEA managers with structures may continue to be distributed in various European countries using National Private Placement Rules (NPPRs) for as long as they remain available for use. However, these NPPRs are constantly evolving across territories and are due to be assessed by the European Commission between the end of 2017 and July 2018. This could potentially result in the phasing out of such NPPRs.
The AIFMD Passport – How does it work?

The passporting procedure under AIFMD is similar to that which exists for UCITS funds in the EEA. Once an AIFM is authorised in one EEA member state, the passport permits the AIFM to market units or shares of any EEA AIF that it manages to professional investors in the home member state of the AIFM as well as any of the other 27 EEA member states. Without the need for additional authorisation, there must be a notification letter for each EEA member state in which the AIFM wishes to market its shares or units to professional investors.

For passporting purposes, an investor must meet the definition of professional investor set out in the Markets in Financial Instruments Directive (MiFID). According to MiFID, a professional client is a client who possesses the experience and knowledge to make its own investment decisions and properly assess the risks that it incurs. Furthermore, in the case of an AIF structured as a Master / Feeder, the Master must be domiciled in the EEA in order to avail of the passport.

The AIFM must provide the following documentation to gain authorisation to use the passport:
- Notification letter
- AIF rules or instruments of incorporation
- Identification of depositary
- Description of information on EEA AIF available to investors
- Information on how the master EEA AIF is established if it is a feeder EEA AIF
- Indication of the Member State in which it intends to market the EEA AIF
- Details on investment strategy and objectives, fees, latest net asset value or market value and latest annual report

The AIFMD states that within 20 working days following receipt of a complete notification file, the AIFM’s home state regulator will inform the AIFM if it may start marketing the EEA AIF. Where a positive notification is received, the AIFM can start marketing with effect from the date of receipt. The AIFM’s home state regulator can prevent marketing only if the AIFM’s management of the AIF does not or will not comply with the terms of the AIFMD or the AIFM otherwise does not or will not comply with the terms of the AIFMD.

Some countries may require additional documentation in the form of a prospectus supplement or may have specific service providers’ specific requirements, such as a local representative and/or paying agent.

COOPERATION MECHANISM
DISTRIBUTING IRISH FUNDS IN EUROPE

National Private Placement Regimes

National Private Placement Regimes principally relates to the marketing of non-EEA AIFs and AIFs managed by non-EEA AIFMs. As AIFMD has been implemented in each EU member state there have invariably been differences in approach to certain areas. The fund registration process therefore varies from country to country and must be considered on an individual basis when making applications to ensure that all the requirements of each member state are met.

Reverse Solicitation

Reverse solicitation, or passive marketing, which is marketing that is not at the direct or indirect initiative of the non-EEA fund manager is still permitted under the AIFMD. For example if an investor approaches the manager about investing in a fund without prior solicitation, then on that basis the manager should not need to comply with the AIFMD as such marketing would not be at the initiative of the manager.

There is no firm guidance as to what constitutes reverse solicitation and a manager intending to rely on reverse solicitation will need to ensure that procedures and policies are put in place to clearly demonstrate that a particular EU investor invested in the fund on this basis. It will also need to ensure that follow up communications with such an investor do not inadvertently result in active marketing, for example, of another fund.

If a manager is unwilling to rely on reverse solicitation, then the only alternative at present for such managers is to market in accordance with existing private placement regimes.

Marketing between 2015 and 2018

Although the private placement regime is expected to remain in place until at least 2018, not all EEA countries may retain the regime if the EEA passport is introduced following decisions from ESMA and the European Commission, further details of which are expected during 2016.
Marketing after 2018

The private placement regime is generally expected to remain in place until 2018, at which time ESMA is expected to report on whether this regime should stay or be abolished. If it is abolished, all non-EEA Managers who wish to continue marketing their funds in the EEA will need to apply for authorisation to a “regulator of reference” and comply fully with the AIFMD.

Now that the AIFMD is in force it is likely that many institutional investors will be looking for asset managers to comply with the AIFMD when they are making investments into alternatives either because of their own regulatory considerations or because, as a fiduciary investor, they want to avail of the investor protections built into the AIFMD.

Managers will need to determine early which jurisdictions to focus on to establish their platforms and the product set which should be aligned to each. Asset managers will require “boots on the ground” because a rapport will have to be established with policymakers and standard setters in every jurisdiction of operation.

Irish Collective Asset-management Vehicle (ICAV)

The ICAV, a new corporate vehicle designed for Irish investment funds, now sits alongside the public limited company (plc). It provides a tailor-made corporate fund vehicle for both UCITS and AIFs. The ICAV allows a new form of corporate vehicle for funds whose purpose is to minimise the administrative complexity and cost of establishing and maintaining collective investment schemes in Ireland. As a bespoke piece of legislation, it was drafted with the specific needs of investment funds in mind, and will have the advantage that it will not be impacted by amendments to certain pieces of company legislation that are targeted at trading companies. The legislation also includes a mechanism for non-Irish investment companies to migrate into Ireland and become an ICAV as part of a single process. The new vehicle now sits alongside Unit Trust, the Common Contractual Fund and the Investment Limited Partnership as existing set-up options, while an additional benefit includes the ability to elect “check the box” classification for US investors.

UCITS Directive Reform

UCITS IV introduced some improvement on the fund notification process. There is now a streamlined procedure for regulator to regulator notifications. Despite the improvements regarding the time to market, entry to certain countries is still difficult due to low harmonisation of local marketing rules.

PRIIPs

The Packages Retail and Insurance Based Investment Products (PRIIPs) legislation is expected to see the UCITS Key Investor Information Document (KIID) phased out and replaced with a new Key Information Document (KID) for all so-called PRIIPs products, which include UCITS funds, unit linked life insurance products and structured products.

Under the proposals, a new KIID would be introduced - a measure that would create a level playing field between UCITS funds and other investment products. The new three page document will include basic information about the product, its expected risk and return and the overall cost of the investments.

The draft PRIIPs rules were approved by the European Parliament in April 2014. The Council of the EU also announced that it now expects to formally adopt the proposed regulation.

Markets in Financial Instruments Directive (MiFID II)

MiFID II is set to impact on asset managers' distribution practices by introducing a ban on inducements for independent financial advisers across Europe.

Firms will also need to ensure they have clearly defined target markets when they design new products and they must ensure these products are distributed only to that intended market.

The proposed effective ban on most inducements, including commissions and rebates, for independent advisors will force many in the market to rethink their business model and how their funds are distributed. While ESMA, in its technical advice of December 2014, appears to have stepped back slightly from their original position by adding a ‘wider number of positive situations justifying the receipt of inducements’, it will be very difficult to legitimately receive commissions.

It is still permitted to have inducements for non-independent advisors but they have to be clearly disclosed and any costs to clients must enhance the service they are provided.

Product governance requirements have been extended; asset managers, when creating a product, must put in place a formalised approval process and must ensure that the product meets the needs of a specific target market while being distributed through the appropriate channels in order to reach that segment.

For more than a quarter of a century, Ireland has been a leading regulated domicile for internationally distributed investment funds. The Irish tax regime has been, and continues to be, one of the key growth drivers of the funds industry in Ireland.
Ireland’s tax neutral regime for globally distributed investment funds has been in place for over 25 years. Our tax treaty network spans over 70 countries across the EU, Middle East, Asia and South America, and it is one of the most developed and favourable tax treaty networks in the world. The availability of treaty benefits in a particular case will ultimately depend on the relevant tax treaty and the approach of the tax authorities in the treaty country. Consequently, treaty access needs to be reviewed on a case-by-case basis.

Investor Level

Non-Irish investors are not subject to Irish tax on their investment and do not incur any withholding taxes on payments from the fund.

FATCA

Ireland was the first international fund domicile to sign an Intergovernmental Agreement (IGA) with the US in respect of the implementation of FATCA.

Common Reporting Standard (CRS)

Ireland was also one of the early adopter jurisdictions of the OECD’s Common Reporting Standard (CRS) regime. Ireland’s tax regime, as well as being highly efficient, clear and certain, is open, transparent and fully compliant with OECD guidelines and EU law. The Irish framework is legislation-based and does not rely on rulings.

Ireland has the highest rating in the OECD Global Forum on Transparency and Exchange of Information for Tax Purposes.

Fund Level

Irish regulated funds are exempt from Irish tax on income and capital gains derived from their investments and are not subject to any Irish tax on their net asset value. There are additionally no net asset, transfer or capital taxes on the issue, transfer or redemption of units owned by non-Irish resident investors.

VAT

As provided under EU law, the provision of management, administration and custody services to an Irish regulated fund is exempt from Irish VAT. Other services, such as legal and accounting services, can result in an Irish VAT liability, but may be offset, depending on the fund’s VAT recovery position.

European Developments

In recent years, several European jurisdictions, such as Austria, Switzerland, Belgium, Germany, Italy and the UK, have either introduced new tax reporting regimes or modified existing ones.

Germany

In Germany, the tax treatment for German investors is significantly better if they are investing in a transparent fund (i.e. a fund that has met the local German tax reporting obligations). For this reason most potential German investors require funds to have transparency status. In order to achieve tax transparency status the fund must satisfy various filing and reporting requirements, which include local publication requirements and obtaining a certificate from the German tax authorities that the fund’s German tax reporting is in compliance with German tax law.

Tax information must be certified by a tax auditor and published in the German electronic federal gazette within four months of the financial year end. In addition to annual reporting Germany requires daily reporting for certain parts of the fund’s income.

Funds which fulfill the complete range of annual and daily reporting requirements are regarded as tax transparent. The consequence of being labelled non-transparent negatively impacts the tax treatment of German resident investors.

Austria

From an Austrian tax point of view, investment funds which carry out Austrian tax reporting are considered transparent, meaning there is a direct allocation of income of the fund to investors. This is more attractive to investors than lump sum taxation which applies where a fund does not have tax reporting.

In Austria, foreign funds may appoint a local tax representative who along with the Fund administrator calculates and provides information (within certain timeframes) to the Oesterreichische Kontrollbank (OEKB) on deemed distributed income, net interest income and information on the taxable portion of the distributions paid to investors.

United Kingdom

In order for non-UK investment funds to achieve preferential treatment in the UK, it is important that investment funds obtain UK reporting status. Under the Fund Reporting Regime, a fund is required to obtain confirmation from the UK tax authorities prospectively that it meets the eligibility criteria to be considered for Reporting Fund Status. Once Reporting Fund Status is obtained a fund must then comply with the reporting requirements set out in the regulations which require that it reports 100% of its income returns (calculated under the UK tax rules) to UK investors and the UK tax authorities on an annual basis. Where a fund has Reporting Fund status, UK investors will be taxed under the Capital Gains Tax (CGT) regime upon realisation of their investment in the fund, rather than as offshore income gains taxable at investors’ marginal tax rate which would otherwise apply if UK reporting status was not achieved.

Switzerland

Swiss individual investors require tax reporting so that they can declare their taxable income and the value of the investment in their tax return. If Swiss tax reporting is not undertaken, investors could suffer prohibitive income tax in Switzerland. Foreign funds are treated like Swiss funds if they pass certain equivalence criteria. If the foreign fund is to be distributed in Switzerland, an up-front authorisation by the Swiss Financial Markets Authority (FINMA) may be obtained, depending on the category of investor targeted.

The tax reporting involves the preparation of a calculation to separate the taxable income from tax exempt capital gains in the hands of the Swiss investor based on Swiss taxation principles. The taxable income and net asset value per share for income tax and personal net wealth tax purposes can be provided to the Swiss Federal Tax Administration (FTA) which then publishes these values in the official rates list. No tax information is required to be published for institutional or corporate investors.

Belgium

There is no investor tax reporting in Belgium as such, but it is required that tax is payable on the net assets of funds in Belgium and an accompanying return submitted to the Belgian tax authorities (“UCI Certification”). The Belgian Net Asset Tax is due on the net amounts invested in Belgium which equates to subscriptions (net of redemptions) made through a Belgian financial intermediary.

Where Belgian residents subscribe via foreign intermediaries, these subscriptions are excluded from a fund’s taxable base, irrespective of whether or not the fund is registered with the Belgian Banking, Finance and Insurance Commission. The tax is due and payable by 31 March each year.

Italy

Italian tax reporting was introduced with effect from 1 January 2012. From this date, profits deriving from Italian and certain other funds became subject to a 20% tax rate. The increase from 12.5% to 20% of the tax rate applicable to profits deriving from investments funds mainly affected Italian resident private individual investors and certain non-Italian resident investors.

In order to preserve the reduced 12.5% taxation in certain instances, tax reporting is required in Italy to identify the portion of profits/losses associated with “indirect” investment in eligible bonds. It is necessary to determine an average percentage on the basis of the ratio between the value of the eligible bonds and the total asset value based on the two last available financial statements of the fund.
